

For Immediate Release: Atlanta, June 8, 2009

The World Chamber of Commerce is pleased to announce that State Senator Chip Rogers has been nominated and elected to its Board of Directors.

First elected to the Georgia State Senate in 2005, Senator Rogers was selected by his colleagues in 2008 to be Senate Majority Leader. Senator Rogers has earned more than a dozen "Legislator of the Year" awards.

The Senator attended Cobb County public schools, earned his bachelor's degree from Georgia Tech and a master's degree from Georgia State University. He is a successful small business owner. He resides in Cherokee County with his wife and four children.

Senator Rogers was recently featured at a symposium on international business sponsored by the World Chamber of Commerce, held at the Ritz Carlton, Buckhead. Upon his election to the Board of Directors of the World Chamber of Commerce, Senator Rogers commented that "I accept this nomination and look forward to contributing any way possible to your efforts".

The World Chamber was created in 2008 and has as its mission to assist companies in reaching out to international markets. The World Chamber provides networking and contact opportunities between businesses located in the U.S. and internationally. It builds international awareness on behalf of American and foreign businesses by fostering an economic, cultural and social/humanitarian exchange, and acting as a liaison between organizations seeking to develop international trade and investment.

Upon Senator Rogers selection, WCC President Solange Warner stated as follows "I am delighted to announce that Senator Rogers has accepted our invitation to serve on the WCC Board. His knowledge, expertise, and great experience will be an invaluable contribution to the World Chamber of Commerce."
